TO ENJOY GOOD HEALTH

"TRY-NEW-LIFE"

Headache, Rheumatism, Constipation, Give Way to Restful Ease
When Circulation Is Stimulated---Skilled Operators Show
How to Use Wonderful Instrument That Restores Tired Nerves

diseases can be successfully treated with "Try-New-Life." There are few that cannot. The reason is that it is nothing violent, it is not painful, nothing disagreeable, it is against which Nature rebels. In fact, it is merely a scientific method of helping Nature when she is tired from overwork, weakened by disease, or handicapped by a defective in any particular part of the body.

Headache is one of the most common and one of the most painful, of ordinary ailments of mankind—one of the most stubborn. In the hands of a skilled operator, "Try-New-Life" quiets the throbbing nerves, restores the flow of blood to the brain, and in a few moments the throbbing, tearing pain is gone, leaving a drowsy feeling of ease.

Headache is the most irritating disease which attacks the ordinary man or woman is rheumatism. The general health may seem excellent, the mind may be clear, the sufferer may desire and may need to be actively about his work, but because of a swollen joint, a sore muscle, an inflamed tendon or other result of rheumatism he must sit idle or even keep his bed and suffer torment besides. Some of the cures of this painful malady by "Try-New-Life" are almost beyond belief. Men have come into a Hamilton-Beach store walking painfully with a cane, and after one free treatment have gone away walking erect and with no pain. Women with hands drawn and knotted with the agony of rheumatism or gout have, after a single free treatment, used fingers and wrists that had long been stiff and useless.

Even inflammatory rheumatism, in which muscles, tendons and nerves are so swollen and tender that the skin cannot be touched without causing intense suffering, gives way before the soft, delicate, soothing touch of "Try-New-Life." And any discovery that robs inflammatory rheumatism of any of its suffering and terrors is surely a boon to humanity, if it did nothing more.

Defective hearing is often relieved in a single minute, especially if it be due to catarrhal affection of the nasal passages. Instances have been known where the sufferer, after a five-minute treatment, plainly heard his watch tick when held several inches from his ear—a thing he had not done in years. In one case a very old man came to the Hamilton-Beach store, so nearly deaf that he could hear nothing unless one shouted at the top of the voice through an ear trumpet, was given a free treatment both for rheumatism of the knees, which were so stiff that he could not rise from a chair without help, and for his deafness. Inside of fifteen minutes the pain was taken from his knees so that he could sit and rise without help, and in his excitement over this relief he dropped his ear trumpet and did not notice for several minutes that the treatment had cured his deafness so that he was talking and hearing very well without it.

Sleeplessness is the bane of persons with worn nerves, especially women, whose nervous organizations are very delicate. No matter how hard has been the day's work, how tired they are at night, and how much they need a good night's sleep, they toss and turn, roll and writhe many times until almost time to get up before they can close their eyes. Now, sleep is natural to the healthy person. All that "Try-New-Life" does is to help Nature set up natural conditions, and sleep comes at once. This it does by soothing the nerves and lessening the flow of blood to the already tired and worn brain. The operator who knows how to use the magical little machine works on the nerve centers of the neck and back, quieting them and aiding them to carry on the breathing and circulation naturally. Then the face and head are stroked with a soft applicator, and a feeling of drowsiness steals over the sufferer. The quiet humming of the little machine somehow seems to help make one sleepy, and many a time a sufferer has almost fallen asleep in the chair, though she had not known a full night's sleep in weeks.

One of the first tasks that tired Nature begins to slight is digestion. No matter if one is careful what he eats, and drinks, and what hours he keeps, if he puts too great a strain on his system by overwork or worry he is likely to find that his stomach is failing him. Nature needs all her strength to do the extra work he is imposing on her, and takes from the stomach the energy she needs elsewhere. Then sour stomach, burning, gas, loss of appetite, pain and sometimes constipation, sometimes diarrhea, follow.

Not only will "Try-New-Life" tone and strengthen the body so that it can carry a heavier load of work but it will work directly on the stomach and give it the vigor to do its work better. Under skillful handling the flow of the gastric juices is stimulated, the stomach is encouraged and strengthened to go on with the peristaltic movements, the intestines are helped to take up their burden, and the whole process of digestion is hastened and encouraged.

Sore, tired, aching feet respond at once to the soothing effect of "Try-New-Life" and the pain is taken away in a few minutes.

Painful, stiff, useless muscles resulting from broken bones, dislocation, sprains or other causes that compel them to remain idle for a long time are quickly invigorated and built up by "Try-New-Life." The application is in the nature of exercise, and has the same effect on the muscles. It has the further effect of stimulating a full and healthy flow of blood, which builds up the tissues, and of stimulating and invigorating the nerves which control the muscles. Some wonderful cures have been made in the few months that this magical little machine has been before the public.

If you are suffering from any ailment whatever—if you are not as well and strong and happy as Nature intended you should be—you will not be treating yourself fairly if you do not at least call and see what "Try-New-Life" can do. It will not cure everything. There are even some diseases which in an advanced stage might be aggravated instead of cured. But the skilled operators in attendance will tell you frankly if you cannot be helped. But for all the ordinary ills of humanity "Try-New-Life" will give quick relief and in many cases a permanent cure besides. Especially is it fine for the woman who is weak and nervous and worn out, and the man who lacks strength and vigor—who is "all in." Come in and get a free demonstration at No. 15 West First South street and you will understand the full meaning of the words "quick relief from pain."

Preserves and Produces Hair

Dandruff and falling hair are the results of poor scalp nourishment. Congestion of the veins which feed the hair roots causes the scalp to harden and dry and the hair to wither and fall out. No treatment whatsoever will relieve this condition of scalp circulation except massage. The blood must be brought back to the scalp, and when that is done nature will supply the hair.

"Try-New-Life" is a natural enemy to dandruff and imparts a soothing effect to the brain. It stimulates the circulation, revives the life in the scalp, removes all dandruff, prevents hair from falling out and revitalizes the hair roots.

For the waist, which ought to be slender and yet muscular and pliant, but which, through lack of exercise, tends to grow thick and pudgy, nothing will restore its lost suppleness like a thorough course of scientific massage as given only by the magical little machine, "Try-New-Life."

For hips which lack the long, graceful flowing lines they used to have and are beginning to show a suspicion of fatness, the best and surest and quickest—and by far the easiest—is to treat them with "Try-New-Life," the newest scientific massage.

The face shows the effect of faulty circulation perhaps quicker than any other part of the human body. Pimples, wrinkles, sallowness, flabby cheeks, lax muscles about the chin, crows' feet about the eyes, dry and harsh skin, all show plainly the effects of poor circulation. "Try-New-Life" supplies this by stimulating a normal supply of blood, and quickly brings the bloom of youth to the sallow cheek and gleam of health to the tired eye.

"Try-New-Life" is the only thing that will in any wise take the place of physical exercise and help the system to throw off the effects of neglected muscles and nerves, and bring back the health, beauty and bodily vigor that Nature meant for every man and woman.

The "Try-New-Life" machines may be seen in the hands of skilled operators at the store of the Hamilton-Beach company, 15 W. First So. St.
